

Toolkit Workshop: Using Quantitative Data in Access and Participation: Methods and Analysis

In this session we will start by introducing participants to the Evaluation section of the members area of the NERUPI website with a particular focus on resources that support quantitative approaches to evaluation. Using a combination of presentation and practical groupwork activities, Joanne Moore will then explore the range of quantitative data sources and collection methods most useful to access and participation evaluators, including a practical session on how to choose the most appropriate sources and methods for your evaluation.
